Scandinavia is again under the spotlight of the CIK-FIA European Championship 2017 as it is staging the closing weekend of the season in Sweden at the Circuit Asum Ring of Kristianstad, just one week after the round held at Pauerparck of Alahärmä in Finland.

The circuit of Kristianstad has the duty to close the European Championship with all categories on track, namely KZ, KZ2, OK and OK-Junior, after the rounds held in Sarno-ITA (KZ, OK, OK-Junior), Genk-BEL (KZ, KZ2), Oviedo-ESP (KZ, OK, OK-Junior), Le Mans-FRA (KZ2, OK, OK-Junior) and Alahärmä-FIN (OK-OK-Junior).

CRG has already secured the KZ Championship with the dominant run of Paolo De Conto in the first three rounds of Sarno, Genk and Oviedo. For De Conto the race in Sweden is just a formality, but he is all set to showcase the technical value of his CRG-Tm package.

In the past round held in Finland, the other CRG protagonists of OK and OK-Junior have been very quick in qualifying and heats, but were hit by bad luck in the Finals. They will certainly try and bounce back in Sweden. Flavio Camponeschi will still be absent from OK, as he is still has to get some rest due to the muscular pain on the neck that affected him in free practice in Finland.

In qualifying held on Friday in Kristianstad, Paolo De Conto had to skip the KZ session as he was late at the entry gate due to a problem of the last minute. Luckily, not very many drivers are present in this KZ closer in Sweden (11 in total) and Paolo De Conto will certainly be able to recover from this hiccup in the heats. In free practice, the Italian had posted the quickest time in 49.819s, while the pole position went to Kremers in 49.995s. The two Dutch brothers Jorrit and Stan Pex are also present in Sweden with CRG.
