ANDREA ROSSO JOINS CRG

The quick Italian driver Andrea Rosso will make his debut in OK with CRG at the forthcoming Trofeo delle Industrie, before competing in the two races of the WSK Final Cup.

CRG Racing Team is pleased to announce the collaboration agreement with the driver Andrea Rosso, who will join the team for the last meetings of the season, making his debut in the OK class. The young Italian driver, born in 2003, will take the field with the CRG colours on October 29th at the Industries Trophy in Lonato, as soon as he will get the upgraded licence for the new category, then he will race the 2 rounds of the WSK Final Cup in Adria.

The agreement between the parties includes an option for continuing the collaboration in 2018. Andrea Rosso is coming from a positive season in OK Junior where he conquered several important results, as the WSK Master Series title and the victory at the Margutti Trophy.

Now he aims ending the season in the best way with the CRG team, especially making experience in the hardest OK class, in view of 2018 when he will make all the international programme in this category.

This is how the Piemontese driver comments this new experience: "I am very happy to start this new adventure with CRG, one of the most important and winning factories in international karting, that always followed his drivers in the best way, both from the technical and formative point of view. The goal for this end of the season will be working well together with the technical staff and gain confidence with their working methods. I also hope to reach some positive results and that we can lay the foundations for continuing our collaboration in 2018."
